Thai Enquirer News Summary

Economic News

- Kriengkrai Thiennukul, President of the Federation of Thai Industries (FTI), stated that the Constitutional Court's delay in ruling on the qualifications of Prime Minister Srettha Thavisin has created a more uncertain economic atmosphere. This situation leaves both domestic and international investors uncertain about whether the outcome will be positive or negative, leading to a delay in investment decisions.
  - ❖ Kriengkrai emphasized that the ongoing political uncertainty has clearly impacted investor confidence, as reflected in the decline of the Thai stock market and capital outflows from the country.

- ❖ Supavud Saicheua, President of the National Economic and Social Development Council (NESDC), said that the uncertain political situation in Thailand is delaying the recovery of the Thai economy.

- Currently, the Bank of Thailand continues to implement tight monetary policies. If policy interest rates are not lowered, it will impact the Thai economy in the second half of the year and into next year, resulting in growth below expectations.

- Meanwhile The University of the Thai Chamber of Commerce (UTCC)'s consumer confidence index contracted for 4 consecutive months, reaching its lowest point in 9 months, the university's Center for Economic and Business Forecasting (CEBF) reported.

- ❖ The center indicated that people are still concerned about economic uncertainties, the economic slowdown, rising energy prices, and geopolitical conflicts that continue to impact Thai exports. Lowered purchasing power and high household debt are also concerns.

- ❖ CEBF noted that the economic recovery in Q3 will not be significant, but the economy is expected to be supported by government stimulus measures, the acceleration of the government's investment budget, and tourism recovery. They expect the economy to expand by 3% in the second half of the year and by 2.5% for the entirety of 2024. This projection does not include the digital wallet policy, but if included, GDP could expand by 2.8-3% this year.

- The Nation Group announced it would suspend partial payments for employees earning more than 50,000 Baht per month due to reduced advertising revenue caused by the economic downturn.

- ❖ The suspended payments for some employees will range from 10% to 30% of their total salary between July 1 and December 31. These suspended payments will be reimbursed in the first half of 2025.

- The Stock Exchange of Thailand (SET) index closed up 0.46% yesterday at 1,329.37 points, with a trading value of 40.298 billion Baht. The index moved in a narrow range as investors awaited fresh news and monitored political developments, with the Constitutional Court postponing its ruling on the qualifications of Prime Minister Srettha Thavisin until July 24, 2024.
- ❖ Investors are also keeping an eye on the upcoming release of second-quarter earnings reports from listed banks and the progress of the Thailand ESG Fund, which is expected to be proposed to the Cabinet next week.

- Shares of PTT Plc (PTT) fell 1.50% yesterday, closing at 32.75 Baht with a trading value of 2.13 billion Baht. This decline was caused by 2-3 main factors, particularly the change to the Single Pool Gas formula, which will adjust the pricing structure of natural gas and impact the costs of PTT's gas separation plants in Q2 2024.
- ❖ Additionally, PTT was affected by a loss incurred by PTT Asahi, in which PTT Global Chemical Plc (PTTGC) holds a 50% stake along with a Japanese partner. Moreover, the consideration of the new fuel tariff for September-December 2024, which may require PTT to support the reduction of electricity costs, also contributed to the decline.

- TISCO Financial Group Plc (TISCO) is scheduled to release its 2nd quarter financial performance for 2024 today. Analysts forecast that TISCO's profit for the quarter will range from 1.6 billion Baht to 1.8 billion Baht.
  - ❖ The main driver of the company's earnings is expected to be income from IPO sales. However, TISCO's overall loan growth is expected to slow down, while non-performing loans (NPLs) could increase slightly.
- Most listed companies are set to announce their Q2 results starting later next week and into the month of August.

- Former justice minister Pongthep Thepkanjana has been appointed as the new head of the government's working group tasked with studying the multi-billion-Baht Stark share scandal, replacing Pichai Nilthongkham, who resigned, according to the Ministry of Justice.
  - ❖ Along with Pongthep's appointment, the secretary-general of the Security and Exchange Commission (SEC), the president of the Thailand Federation of Accounting Professions (TFAC) and the president of the Thai Investors Association (TIA) were also appointed to the working group in an order signed Tuesday by Justice Minister Tawee Sodsong.

- The UBS Global Wealth 2024 report from UBS Bank indicated that the number of Thai Baht billionaires worldwide is expected to continue rising over the next 5 years, especially those with assets exceeding 50 million dollars or 1.8 billion Baht. The highest number of billionaires is in the United States, accounting for 38%, followed by Western Europe with 28%, and China with 10%, which is equal to the combined number of billionaires in Japan, India, Indonesia, South Korea, Singapore, and Thailand.
- ❖ The economic region predicted to see the largest increase in billionaires from 2023 to 2028 is Taiwan, with an increase of 47% from 788,799 to 1,158,239 people. Thailand ranks 9th, with a 24% increase from 100,001 to 123,531 people.

Political News

- Prime Minister Srettha Thavisin announced that on July 15, there will be a dinner meeting with the coalition parties, hosted by the Palang Pracharath Party at the Four Seasons Hotel. Over the past year, Srettha said he has had informal meetings and conversations with everyone regularly.

- ❖ When asked why leader of the Palang Pracharath Party Gen Prawit Wongsuwan (the man who borrowed million-dollar watches from his friends who are dead) never joined the coalition parties for dinner, Srettha said there is nothing he can do about it. However, he wanted to see Gen. Prawit attend.

- Yesterday, during a House of Representatives meeting, Prime Minister Srettha Thavisin adjusted his schedule to answer a live question from the opposition for the first time.
  - ❖ In response to Sirikanya's questions regarding the digital wallet project, Srettha stated that the project's details would be announced on July 24. He mentioned that changes, such as the type of goods allowed to be purchased, would be based on feedback from the public, businesses, and the opposition. The budget allocated for this initiative is 43 billion Baht from the mid-year 2024 budget.
  - ❖ Sirikanya responded that if the budget is insufficient to alleviate the cost of living for Thai people before the end of this year, she proposed that the government incentivize local administrations to use 20 billion Baht of their accumulated funds for small-scale investments to create jobs in rural areas. She noted that the Prime Minister has so far focused on aiding large businesses with measures primarily benefiting the real estate sector, including a recent plan to allow foreigners to lease properties for 99 years.
  - ❖ However, Prime Minister Srettha reaffirmed that his government is striving for a better future and will continue to move forward with all coalition parties.

- Pita Limjaroenrat, a list MP and chief advisor to the leader of the Move Forward Party, responded to the Prime Minister's statement about 'fighting against opposition with no future.'
  - ❖ He suggested Srettha review Sirikanya's question before judging whether it is the opposition that has no future or the government that has no answers. He pointed out that the government often said that giving free money to citizens is not abnormal, citing Singapore as an example.
  - ❖ However, Singapore does not have the same fiscal issues as Thailand. He also noted that the project, with such substantial funds, could lead to disaster rather than a crisis.

- 136 out of the total new 200 senators reported for duty yesterday. The Secretariat of the Senate will allow new senators to report themselves for two more days, on July 12 and July 15. Once completed, the first Senate meeting will be scheduled.
  - ❖ It was reported that independent senators plan to report on July 15 and will hold discussions about nominating a candidate for the President of the Senate position.

- Senator Nantana Nantavaropas stated that her group comprises 30 independent senators, and this number is expected to increase. This group will operate differently from the previous senators, as they are driven by a common ideology to promote public interests. There is no leader or person controlling the group. The group is scheduled to report to the Senate Secretariat on July 15 because many members are traveling from other provinces.

- ❖ Meanwhile, the group will discuss the election of the President and Vice Presidents of the Senate, over the weekend.
- ❖ It is reported that the positions of President and Vice Presidents of the Senate are expected to be decided by the end of July. Initially, there are plans to allocate the Vice President role to female senators. The independent senator's group is considering promoting members from their network for these positions, with potential candidates including Mrs. Angkhana Neelapajit and Nantana Nantavaropas.

- Incoming Senator Keskamon Pliensamai, whose educational background has been put into question, will file lawsuits against those who defamed her. She insisted that her educational qualifications are genuine, and no degrees were purchased as claimed.
  - ❖ Keskamon, 45, received the highest score of 79 votes in the election at the national level. Her senatorial application showed that she graduated with a Doctor of Philosophy (PhD) in Business Administration from California University and a PhD in Management and Resource Development from Maejo University.

- The interesting thing about the university where Senator Kesakamon got her degree is the same university that the convicted drug dealer and current Minister of Agriculture – Thammant Prompao got his 'DEGREE'.
  - ❖ There is no need to say anything more. All things are very very clear.

- The Supreme Court’s Criminal Division for Holders of Political Office acquitted Kittiratt Na-Ranong, Prime Minister's chief adviser, in a case related to alleged graft involving the selection of a local supplier for rice exports to Indonesia in 2011. The National Anti-Corruption Commission (NACC) found grounds for the allegation in 2021 and indicted him.
  - ❖ The case dates back to August 2011 when Indonesia's food procurement agency, Bulog, signed a deal to purchase 300,000 tonnes of rice from Thailand at US$559 per tonne. Siam Indica and Nakhon Sawan Kha Kao submitted bids in December 2011, with only Siam Indica meeting the criteria.
  - ❖ The court acquitted Kittiratt after the Public Warehouse Organisation provided evidence showing that all procedures were followed according to regulations. There was no evidence that Kittiratt neglected his duty as alleged by the NACC.

General News

- The Thai Meteorological Department reported that a new storm will cause heavy rainfall across Thailand for four consecutive days from July 14 to 17.
  - ❖ Strong winds are expected in the Andaman Sea and the Gulf of Thailand, with waves reaching 3 meters high. Residents are advised to prepare for potential flash floods and forest runoff.

- Several roads in the popular seaside town of Pattaya were under nearly 2 metres of water after the town was hit with more than an hour of torrential rain on Thursday morning. Traffic in the town, about 147 kilometres southeast of Bangkok, came to a stop as most cars could not make their way through the high waters. Several small cars had nearly disappeared in the flood.
  - ❖ The Pattaya News reported on its Facebook page that the worst spots included the road going past Wat Tham Samakee and a local road running to Sattahip. There was nearly a kilometre-long line of cars stuck there.

- A gas explosion in Suphan Buri's Doem Bang Nang Buat District around 2 pm has resulted in multiple injuries yesterday. The explosion occurred near an Esso filling station close to Tha Chang market. Firefighters have arrived at the scene, but the fire has not yet been extinguished.
  - ❖ The explosion occurred at an LPG filling plant connected to the filling station. One person has suffered severe burn injuries. The fire resulting from the explosion was brought under control around 3 pm, with no further reports of severe injuries or deaths.
